inferred that the name of Chikagou may have long existed as marking the principal chief of the Milnois. Bossu refers to them as "the grand chief," and as belonging to the ancient tribe of the Tamarous. The tribe bearing this name lived for a long period, near the Mississippi, towards Fort Chartres.

It was found difficult to determine the absolute meaning and significance of the name of, Chicago. There is but little doubt that a word of similar sound in the Indian tongues is the name of the altimum, bottany, called the wild leck. But while it is improbable that the name of an Indian chief of distinctions.

bear, the white hind, the for and the torties?

The tradition referred to by the authores of Waubun, as generally reclired, that Officago derived its same from a ancient chief who was drowned it me river, possesses, it will be seen, as instorical probability.

This authority of maps and charts was discussed at some length by the writer of the report. Marquettes map is preserved in St. Mary's Coll. go at Montreal, and a fine small of it is in the possession of the Chicago Historical Society. This notice the point of the Chicago Harbor, and the next approach to it of the Illinois Elver, but no name is given to either.

De l'Isles map, after La Salle's memorando, also belonging to the society, gives with great sociaracy the present Chicago river—the main river and both branches—to which is given the name of Chicago, river. Fire in Cincinnati.

Last night about half-past eleven o'clook, a fire broke oat at the corner of Brondway and Liberty sireet, in the Iron Fromdrey of Jack Haven and Go, for the manufacture o' butta, hinges and hardware, and completely destroyed the establishment, in which were a number of valuable patterns. The flames were communicated to a row of dwellings in Milton street, some eight or nine of which were consumed, and also to three brick houses on Spring street, which were partially (flestroyed.

The fire is thought to have originated from the furnace of the foundry 1, but the foreign of the establishment think it the work of an incendiary. The loss in the foundry is from $15.000 to $22,000, on which there is a critical street of the stablishment think it the work of an incendiary.

Insurance.

The dwellings were owned by John hartburn, Wolfeck and others. What the loss on them is, or whether they are insured, we could not learn, at the late hour, and in the confusion attendant upon the confugration; but we presume the ensire amount of property destroyed cannot full short of $50,000.

the Havre and Laverpool eating ships. Good authority searres us inta without the aid of the Government mail contract, no first-class steamers and sensition. The departures of steamers from America have averaged about five perweek, and the eatine number weekly depart from the different ports of Europe for America.—When the steamers under contract on the other side, are completed, and the additional lines contemplated are under way, there will no doubt be a steamer departing-daily for Europe, and from Europe for America.

There are fourfeen line of steamers, making, under their present arrangement, an aggregate Cunard Line—Liverpool, Boston and New York.

bune, has seen fillibuster Walker, and thus de-scribes him: "I must say of him, as Quinn did of Macklin, that "God wrote a legible hand" when his features were traced. Cruelty and meanness are to be read there in capital letters, and dogged obstinacy, but with no admixing of any intellectual quality, not seed canning, the lowest of all. 'His complexion is a perfect gallows.' Any intelligent jury would hang on trial for any one of his murders. A mor on train for any one or ans muruers. A more villainous countenance I never encountered it my experience, and I trust I never may see such another, especially in a lonely place, to ward nightfall."

A LOUISVILLIAN MURDRERD.—Our readers will remember the account, published some weeks since, of one of Geu. Walker's soldiers being shot, by his order, for leaving the ranks to procure a drink of water. This occurred only the day before Walker's capitination, and it is now possitively ascertained that the victim of this ficialish nurder was Mr. Emmett Scales, the son of our much-respected fellow citizen, Dr. A. W. Scales. Dr. S. has the deepest sympathies of the public in his cruel bereavement. The bad man who has thus been the cause of bringing sorrow to a happy home, will yet have
